

Study Group Service Opportunity

To: Anyone who is willing to help

From: Someone who is willing to receive the help

As part of a fact-finding team, my job is to gather information for the Study Group page at the Fellowship's web site. (The sooner you help me in this endeavor, the faster I can get back to work at a real paying job.) This page will essentially be a resource page where existing and potential study groupies can go for helpful information.

These are some topics we thought of, perhaps you can think of others:

- 1. Favorite Topical Studies
- 2. Lectures or Presentations
- 3. Interesting Urantian Research or Correlation
- 4. How We Dealt With Study Group Challenges
 - A. Disruptive Influences
 - B. Attendance
 - C. Group Focus
 - D. Difficult Dynamics
 - E. Facilitation
- 5. Personal Study Group Experience – Favorable and Unfavorable
- 6. What Makes A Study Group Good?
- 7. Material For Young People or New Readers

By combining the strengths of diverse personalities and unique areas of knowledge the group becomes more effective than the individual. Your ideas are valuable to someone else. Let's pool our resources and help to realize the cherished goal of thousands of study groups worldwide.

"Mathematics asserts that, if one person stands for a certain unit of intellectual and moral value, ten persons would stand for ten times this value. But in dealing with human personality it would be nearer the truth to say that such a personality association is a sum equal to the square of the number of personalities concerned in the equation rather than the simple arithmetical sum. A social group of human beings in co-ordinated working harmony stands for a force far greater than the simple sum of its parts." (UB, Page 1477)

I am counting on you! Please make some time to help me with this assignment.

Patiently waiting for your answers,
