Dear Dr. Sprunger:

We ordered your divided book in three volumes several days ago, but we had not yet ordered the ones for Mr. Harrah, so when I received your letter of January 24 this morning to cancel your order, we decided to go ahead with yours,, but have only one done for Mr. Harrah instead of two. It seems confusing, but ends up as a simple accounting problem. His check will pay for your divided book and his own, and your $20.00 will pay for two whole books which we will send you within the next couple of days.

Now I am glad to inform you of another gift! Miss Edith Currier, one of our members, owns a large number of Urantia Books and would like very much to give five of them to you for whatever use you prefer. She also gave me the postage for the five and suggested that if you want to send them to friends of yours around the country, you might want to give me the names and we would mail them from here instead of sending them to you and having you re-mail them. On the other hand, you might want to send a letter along with the books, or perhaps you would like to use them in Culver. In any event, we have five books for you and will hold them until you tell us how you want them handled. I think we'll also hold the two books mentioned above until we hear from you, so if you decide to have them all in Culver, they can all be sent in one case.

Have I made it all straight? Any questions?

Cordially,

Marian Rowley
