Dear Dr. Sadler:

Enclosed is a copy of the revised Primer. As this is the copy on which I did my composing and as I am a blundering typist, it is not too neat. But since it may be necessary to go over it several times, I am sending you this copy for criticism.

First I went through and attempted to locate all of the quotations from the Urantia Book. Then I rewrote all of the direct quotations in my own phraseology except those sections appearing in quotes. After reading it over, some of them still sound like direct quotes but all I have rechecked are rephrased. Some statements sound awkward. Probably I need to spend more time with it but I have worked with it so intensively that I need to get away from it for a while.

If might help if you or someone in Chicago could criticize this edition and see where we come out. Please mark any spelling or punctuation mistakes which you may find.

I very much appreciate the copy of the Harmony of the Gospels and the Urantia Book which you sent me. For some time I have been wanting something like this.

I will await further instructions from you.

Sincerely yours,

Meredith J. Sprunger
