Dear Dr. Sadler:

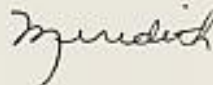

Thank you for your very kind letter. More than any other mortal, I have come to regard you as a spiritual father. As the result possibly of my own decision to spend full time in the Urantia movement and your recent letter, a life plan seems to have crystalized itself in my thinking. Heretofore every attempt to express the inner drive my personality has been partial. Now everything seems to fall into place and give opportunity for a total life effort.

The life plan that came to me with a certain amount of finality is one I had never considered before. It is to promote, organize, and develop a Urantia Theological Seminary. All of my experience and aspirations seem to have meaning and purpose in this life plan. One of the first tasks will be to find wealthy people to back it. We have a number of very wealthy people around the lake and I am starting a philosophical discussion group among these people this summer to see what possibilities there may be here. In my estimation the shores of Lake Maxinkuckee would be an ideal place for such a seminary. The executive offices of the Brotherhood, I think, should always remain in Chicago but a place like Culver would be excellent for seminary activities.

This picture may change but I doubt it. I may never accomplish this goal but to have a goal which so completely fits the inner aspirations of service and to work at it a life time is reward enough. Although I may serve for a time as a field secretary of the Brotherhood, I am rather sure my real goal will be the materialization of a Urantia Theological Seminary.

To the degree you think wise, you may share these aspirations with the Executive Committee of the Brotherhood. Thank you again for your help in this process of personality clarification and expression.

Cordially yours,

Meredith J. Sprunger
