

Moving the Camp to Pella

"... it was truly inspiring to hear these newly ordained teachers personally tell how their message had been received by hungry Jews and Gentiles. At last Jesus was able to see men going out to spread the good news without his personal presence. The master now knew that he could leave this world without seriously hindering the progress of the kingdom. Pg 1806"

Lake Powell is located near Page, AZ on the AZ / Utah border approximately:

- 350 miles N. of Phoenix
- 525 miles S. of Salt Lake City
- 400 miles E. of Las Vegas
- 360 miles W. of Albuquerque

In other words, this is an out-of-the-way place for nearly everyone.

We will be leaving Wahweap Marina approximately noon on Friday, April 17, so allow plenty of time for traveling. Those that wish to serve as a boat captain will need to arrive the night before. The conference will end at noon on Sunday, April 19. GC Society will do everything to help with ground transportation to and from Flagstaff and Phoenix.

This is a high desert lake without a tree in sight, but the 2000 miles of coast, canyons, coves, buttes, vivid colors, and other geologic spectacles are awe-inspiring. We plan to set up headquarters in a private bay. The houseboats will take day trips along the lake and be beached in the evening. Each houseboat will be a floating study group. You might sleep on one boat but study on another.

PROGRAM

During the public ministry of Jesus, camps at or near Pella became large gathering places for Jews & Gentiles alike. The idea of a large group of spiritually enthusiastic people camping together has inspired Urantia Book readers in Arizona to host this conference. The unique setting of living and studying on compact houseboats for 48 hours should stimulate us to higher level of cooperative sharing. The last Sabbath sermon on the Kingdom of heaven was delivered at Pella. Come celebrate the Sabbath with us and learn more about how to spread the good news.

The program will include tried and true study methods right along side never tried before workshops. Youth may participate with adults with ease, so they are truly welcome. All levels of readers from novice to expert will grow and learn. The scenery alone is spectacular. The wind rushing though your hair and the spray of water in your face is sure to bring memorable moments (of some sort). To make this a full experience for all, EVERYONE will be on a clean-up team.

The significance of teachings on the water are obvious. It is mentioned several times in the Urantia book that those that receive this divine spirit shall never know spiritual thirst. We, the Urantia Book readers of Arizona affiliated or not, invite everyone to join us in proclaiming the Kingdom openly with power. We all pray that you water the garden of your heart as well as to seek for the dry sands of knowledge.

Expect the Unexpected

Things you should know

The daytime temperature can range from 50 - 70 degrees F. and the weather can be variable so we urge you to dress accordingly. Among the many logistical challenges in hosting a camping conference is the food. (Now we get an inkling of what Matthew, David and others experienced). We will prepare a simple menu ahead of time and divide it among the boats for the daytime meals and will barbecue for the evening meals. This will require participation from everyone so the boat captain might assign you to a cooking and clean-up team for at least one meal. Each boat comes equipped with propane heat, stove and fridge. You will need a "roughing it" attitude and your own sleeping bag and towels. Space and privacy are limited. There is no planned children's program. The adult program contains opportunities for youth to participate so instead of "baby-sitting" we are looking for a "child-sharing" frame of mind. The boats can hold 12 to 14 people with one bathroom.

Join us for Pesach/Easter celebrations at an original 3-day conference.
