

"How can I tell him
The Urantia
is a fake?"

NEARLY FORTY YEARS AGO, Meredith Sprunger, a Methodist minister and a practicing psychologist, agreed to evaluate The Urantia Book for a friend. When the book arrived, Meredith began to scan the contents. "My God, my friend has been deceived!" he thought. "How can I tell him The Urantia Book is a fake?"

Meredith avoided reading the book for almost a year. As a meeting with his friend loomed, he decided to quickly read enough of the book to be able to discredit it. Meredith began reading, and was several hours into the "Life and Teachings of Jesus" before he looked up. It began to dawn on him that this was no ordinary book. Thus began a love affair with The Urantia Book that has spanned nearly four decades.

Now Meredith marshals all of his knowledge and experience as a minister and a theologian, as a psychologist and a professor - and as a student of The Urantia Papers - to write a historic new book. In its pages you will find optimistic, practical psychology to apply to day-to-day living. Here, too, is a breathtaking cosmic perspective to enrich your life with new meaning. Meredith Sprunger has written a book that will challenge minds and inspire souls well into the next century . . .

A few excerpts from SPIRITUAL PSYCHOLOGY:

"The greater the spirit content of our consciousness the stronger we are drawn to all truth. In this sense, spirit gravity operates very much like material gravity."

"Our mind is the only universe entity which is subject to our will and ultimate control. It is in our psychological world that we live and move and fashion our being. We can twist, distort and corrupt our minds . . . or we can make them true, noble, and wise as we orient and harmonize them with spiritual reality."

"Mind is the human capacity that never ceases to grow."

"A spark or fragment of the Universal Father indwells the human mind. The indwelling spirit is our constant companion leading us in the direction of timeless reality, transcendent beauty, and transforming love."

"Both knowledge and truth have a place in human life. Physicians do not confuse human beings with the static nature of cadavers. Likewise, religionists should not equate the dead formulas of theology with the living power of truth."

Meet Meredith J. Sprunger . . .

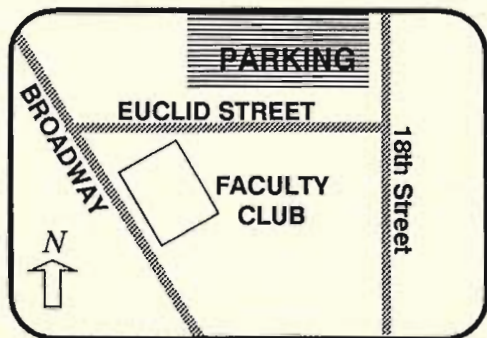

To read Dr. Sprunger's impressive credentials is not to know him. Meredith is a warm, easy to talk to individual who shares his knowledge of The Urantia Book with generous openness.

Meredith met Dr. William Sadler in 1958 and was destined to develop a close relationship with him. They spent long hours discussing the Urantia Papers and their intriguing history. For many years Meredith has been one of the few reliable sources for information about the origin of the Urantia Papers. He has provided many valuable study aids and writings to help readers study The Urantia Book.

Now Meredith draws upon a lifetime of experience, scholarship and counseling to write a powerful new book on the dynamics of spiritual psychology. With clarity and precision he melds the domains of science and religion into a powerful new philosophy. Many of the principles of The Urantia Book will be found in these pages, restated for practical application to everyday life.

Spiritual Psychology by Meredith Sprunger is a must for the library of every reader of The Urantia Book.

MERIDITH SPRUNGER is a minister in the United Church of Christ and a college professor, now retired from pastoral and teaching responsibilities. He has served congregations in the midwest, has taught at Elmhurst College and the Indiana Institute of Technology, where he functioned as the head of the Department of Psychology. For many years Meredith has been a practicing counselor and psychological consultant. He has long been a progressive and active Urantia Book reader and has served as President of the General Council. Meredith is currently the publisher and editor of The Spiritual Journal, an ecumenical publication.
