Troy R. Bishop

I began creating art in the early 1980's, initially as illustrations for my writings. My computer art began in the mid 1990's. The inspirations and insights in my work are grounded in my own inner light and in the light shared by others. The URANTIA Book has had a great influence on the construction of my personal view of reality. Much of my digital art is inspired directly or indirectly by The URANTIA Book and by my own personal experiences.

I style the genre of my visionary art as "transcendent." It's difficult to explain just what I mean by this, but it might help if I explain what transcendent art is to me:

A multilevel reality with many views and many visions.

An expanded vision of the cosmic universe.

A doorway to the many levels of reality within and around us.

A greater awareness of the expanded realm of Infinite Deity.

A touch on the soul speaking of the relationship of all living things.

Bringer of a resolve to be true to the greater things opened up to me.

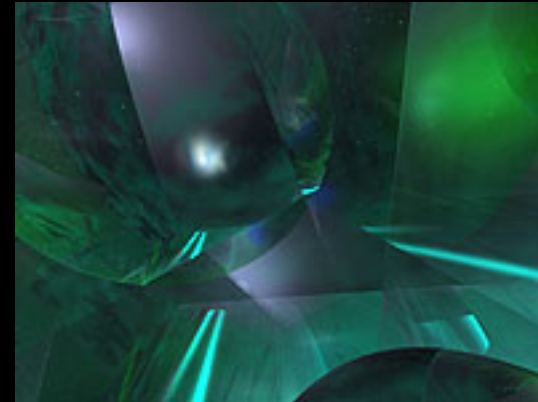

Transformation to higher communion and relationship with the Creator of All.
