

ARNOLD A. ZACHOW

Mr. Zachow was formerly with General Electric's Missile and Space Division, Re-entry Systems. He was responsible for separation and life support systems, analysis and system studies for several space programs.

He obtained two degrees at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, New York, for Aerospace and Physics.

Mr. Zachow is an engineering and management consultant, and has done research in astrophysics, biophysics and electromagnetic fields. His primary interest in research is in medical electronic diagnostic devices.

He is an instructor at Drexel Institute of Technology, Evening School, Physics Department -- and the author of several technical articles.