

Club Season Opens with Conference Thursday

The Illinois Federation Adopts "Building for the Future" as Keynote of Year's Program.

By Roberta Nangle.

The Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, that far flung organization which represents a sisterhood of 100,000 women throughout the state of Illinois, is opening its official season this week with one of those regional conferences that bring together numerous committees of varied intent but with the common bond of the federation's interests.

The keynote slogan of the federation this year is "Building for the Future." Determined that the effects of the last two years' depression and the possible continued suffering of the coming winter shall be curtailed for the benefit of later generations, the federated clubs are entering the new season in a spirit of courage and optimism.

While individual clubs in downstate districts have shown a slight decrease in membership, the federation's membership of clubs has increased. As part of its program to preserve strength the federation has made the kind offer to continue to carry on its roster those clubs that may not be able to afford the slight annual dues. It has also urged its chairman to do everything possible toward the building up through individual clubs and members of a healthy normal attitude in the face of temporary difficulties. Needless to say, relief work has long since been organized and will be carried on all through the state by every club.

New President to Preside.

The federation keynote will be the theme of the conference to be held Thursday at the Hotel Sherman and many phases and methods of "Building for the Future" will be discussed during the day. The new state president, Mrs. William Franklin Farrell, will preside, assisted by the vice president of the northern region, Mrs. A. B. Johnson. The assembly will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning. Conferences of departments and committees will be held in the afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. A fall fashion show will be a luncheon feature at 1 o'clock.

The conference, to be held under the direction of the group chairman, will include a notable array of speakers. Programs, suggestions, and ideas will be jotted down by the club chair-subject will be "The Place of Probation in the Administration of Justice." Other group meetings on Thursday will be those of the art committee, in charge of Mrs. William J. Markle, president of the Art club and past state chairman of art; the conservation committee, Mrs. Max L. Moore, chairman, will present Mrs. E. E. Vowday in a talk on "Birds"; legislation committee, to be presided over by Mrs. George Thomas Palmer; Park Ridge School for Girls, for which Mrs. Sylvester Shields, president of the woman's department of the Chicago Federation, will speak under the chairmanship of Mrs. Sherman V. Reeves, and Indian welfare, for which Dr. Eve Cooper Cole and G. W. Barton will speak under the chairmanship of Mrs. William Hawk.

CLUB NOTES

Basing its hope for success on a service record of 50,000 girls and women served through Y. W. C. A. activities last year, the Young Women's Christian association will rally its workers and friends in a campaign to raise $30,000 in the coming budget during the month of October. The opening event will be a luncheon tomorrow at central branch. Another luncheon will be held Oct. 13, a supper on Oct. 16, and a luncheon Oct. 24. The final report will be given at the Y. W. C. A. annual meeting Oct. 27 at the Harriet Hammond McCormick Memorial. Board members, committee members, and Y. W. C. A. girls will serve as volunteer campaigners to raise the money.

The Y. W. C. A. has not had a public finance campaign for five years, having depended on quiet organized effort throughout the year to bring in the necessary money. Now, however, it is felt that unless there is money actually in hand this fall the association cannot continue in many of its services. Mrs. William L. Hodgkins is president.

The Illinois League of Women Voters will hold its first board meeting of the year on Tuesday at 10:30 o'clock at 225 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. Ralph B. Treadway, president, will preside. The finance committee will be dinner guests of Mrs. Frank P. Dixon, state finance chairman, at her home in Lake Forest on Monday preceding the board meeting. On Friday the child welfare and social hygiene chairmen of the local Leagues will visit the State Training School for Girls at Geneva, Ill., at 12:45 p. m. Miss Florence Monahan, managing officer, will speak on "Skilled Social Services

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans.

"GREETINGS and salutations!" offered the committee chairman as she joined a group of friends seated in the club lounge. "It's great to see you all again."

"I received your postal," acknowledged the long time member. "You sent it from Pierre. It was nice of you to remember your poor stay-at-home friends while you were having such a glorious vacation trip."

"I wish you'd all been along," rejoined the committee chairman. "Oh, I must tell you about a club house I saw in Colorado. We were driving through a small town when we came to a lovely old house, the kind they used to build, big enough for a regiment."

"I was reared in one like that," remembered the board member. "There were a dozen or more women working around the place—painting and hammering, and cleaning up Saturday," continued the committee chairman. "Over the front gate was a big sign, 'New Home of the Bancock Woman's Club.' I told my family to let me out and then to drive around, anywhere, for half an hour."

"Families aren't always in sympathy with such requests," commented the long time member. "Any way, nine let me out and I asked one of the yard workers as to who was in charge. She told me I'd find the president of the club inside. And there she was—putting the wallpaper in the big parlors—and I got my story."

"We'll put you on the next investigating committee we have to appoint," asserted the board member. "The house had been owned by a spinster—the last of her line. She had income enough to take care of herself, but not of the house, and she offered to deed it to the club if the women would pay the taxes and upkeep and give her a life tenure of the once-widow's house on one side of the lot."

"Sounds like a club fairy tale," interposed the librarian. "The club has only a hundred members," reported the committee chairman, "and not much money; the only way they could fix the place up was to do the work themselves. And I'll tell you they were doing a good job and stooping at nothing."

"Which shows what women can do if they have to," pointed out the long time member.

settled. The white haired and lovely lady is now a full fledged model on Fifty-seventh street and says quite simply that ladies must work now and Europe offers no chances of sun.

Fernande's son, Bobby Golet Jr., has entered the Fay school, and as soon as the former Mrs. Riabouchinsky and one time Mrs. Golet is used to her new life she will be joined by her husband, Don Vladimir Notabartoli, and the two children of their marriage.

Frazier Jelke caused a lot of comment by inserting an ad in the newspapers that he would not be responsible for any debts contracted by his wife the former Miss Woodward. Society knew all about the break, but Frazier made it as public as possible. Even before Neenie and Frazier were married the incompatibility of the two was apparent. After their wedding Frazier and his wife discovered that they had little in common. Neenie detested Newport and the opera, and Frazier is a music devotee and is used to the American spas, while his better half prefers Europe.

Finally they parted; but, due to certain demands in the way of a financial settlement, Frazier was the one who went to Europe until things can be settled, while Neenie abides in a cottage in the Virginia hills. At present there is a deal of ill feeling on both sides, and no amicable divorce arrangement in the popular mode seems possible.

Astors in Country Home.

The Vincent Astors, who despite a lot of rumor are more happily married than they were when Helen Huntington first became Mrs. Astor are taking advantage of the glorious autumn on the Hudson and are living at Ferncliffe, the Astor estate at Rhinebeck-on-Hudson. Ferncliffe has been famous since the time of Vincent's grandmother, the late Mrs. Willing Vincent.

While Vincent and Helen are living in their town house in East 80th street, week-ends will find them at the Hudson estate with gay hordes of local guests. Wherever Vincent is, he likes to have lots of friends with him. "The Stourmahl is a choice flock of people, and Ferncliffe will be no exception to the Astor rule."

Love God's Abode Found in Athens By Archaeologist

ATHENS.—(AP)—The site of the temple of Eros, god of love, long sought by archaeologists, has been discovered, it is claimed, by a young Greek student working under Prof. Arvanitopoulos. Financial assistance is being sought from the Greek government so that the researches may be continued. The temple was renowned in ancient times and many Greek authors mentioned a statue of Aphrodite, goddess of beauty, by the great sculptor Praxiteles. The famous helaira Phryne is believed to have posed as its model. The statue has been confused sometimes with the same sculptor's still greater work, the Gnidian Venus, of which there is an early Roman copy. Discovery in the ruins of the temple of even a part of the Aphrodite would be of the greatest importance in archeological circles.
