Dear Mr. Sprunger:

Thank you for yours of the 28th.

I am really overloading you with letters, as I have one now in transit to you in the last day or two that doubtless you had not received when you wrote on the 28th. That is the one asking about the make-up of the introduction which you prepared, and on which, as I said, I noted the Chicago people had used your name and address at the head. I would be glad to have a reply to that letter at your convenience, but I know you are very busy and I must be patient in the matter of replies, and I certainly will be.

We really have on our hands quite a difficult situation when we consider the mental reactions of so many different individuals that may be contacted. Some are entirely open-minded - others are just as far the other way as it is possible to be, but let us hope that we will be able to do good work in this connection as far as we may have any personal contact, and that we may be following the right procedures. It is so true, as you suggest, that the hardest problem is to get people to actually read the book, but if they read Part 4 first, it does seem to me it would arouse real interest in the minds of the majority of people.

Just as soon as the young lady in our office has an opportunity to introduce this matter to Rev. Meussling, she will do so and then I will write you further after we have an opportunity to determine whether or not he can see his way clear to give a little time to considering the book.

With kindest personal regards, I remain

Sincerely yours,

W. F. Harrah
