

The natural outworking of life makes necessary pain and suffering, affliction and tribulation. Yet suffering breeds gratitude and the sensing of true gratitude is a spiritual experience. Gladness grows, day by day, and hope springs forth. Our tinyess in the Cosmos humbles and restrains us. All things become new, always.

The reborn children of Universal destiny are known by their fruits: love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, beauty, genuine humor, truth, and unending good cheer. Our job is ministry rather than judgement. Friendship is our attitude, service our action, and the Infinite Mother-Father Source and Center of it all is our destiny.

We pray for others unreservedly, and let them know. We pray for values, not for things. We focus wholehearted energy on the positive; the negative dies away of its own accord. We strive to return good for ill, and to overcome wrong with righteousness. A gentle tongue turns away anger, while sincerity proceeds to greatness. As we eagerly and fully love those whom we contact, others will chance to observe and be led to discover the loving presence within their own heart, and so become a living member of Cosmic Society. Like the rustle and shimmer of feathers on the wing, vast powers of the universe grace our every step.

The exact manner of life's unfolding is known beforehand only by the Eternal Witness within. Our pilgrimage is one of unending wonder and astonishment while at our core, our soul cannot ever, under any circumstances, be harmed by another person or force, or being. Our Creator is in reality our dearest and closest friend. His subtle pulsations are the ebb and flow of eternity, the oceans of renewing awe, whose refreshing waves sweep our consciousness, cleanse our hearts, and ready us for the new day, there to strike out after the Father's will, to rejoice in Son and Daughtership, and to feel the jubilation of eternal life.

The Spark of eternity that dwells patiently in our mind and heart is our equal partner in the struggles of life. With us He endures our confusion, our agony, our whims and doubts and human frailties. Our inner Co-Partner will steadfastly and unerringly lead us to spiritual heights beyond our mortal realm. But the will of man is final. Our inner Guide uses our decisions for our own future good. Whether we are wise or foolish, He patiently awaits our every choice and action. Human will is not coerced by God. At each step of the cosmic climb we freely choose our own destiny. May yours be Divine.
