Dear Julia:

As you know, Family Relations Foundation is a California nonprofit public benefit corporation. One of our intended purposes is to foster nuclear family life, and particularly in the spiritual dimension.

I have met with the Board of Directors, and by unanimous agreement, we wish to offer to publish and disseminate your proposed book on children and family life. It is a privilege for us to offer this service and we hope you will let us know how we may be of further service to you in this worthy project.

Sincerely yours,

Robert W. Slagle, Ph.D.

Dear Bob:

I am exceedingly honored and grateful to have received your offer from the Family Relations Foundation. Up until that time the project seemed an almost impossible undertaking.

However about the same time I received your letter, Ellen Montgomery called and stated that she would like to help me finish the Marriage and Family Book. Both offers made me begin to feel that the Angels of Progress were really nudging me into continuing my work on this needed guide.

As you know I am asked to avoid as much pressure as possible and want to know if it is agreeable with your Board of Directors if we could avoid a time limit or at least state a long one and if you are willing for Ellen Montgomery to work with me on this. Ellen is a capable and creative worker and wants some project while she is home with the baby.

The feedback from the class I taught on this subject added much to the outline I am enclosing. One notable example is the fact they believe we should add a chapter on The Blended Family. It is these second and third marriages where children are involved that bring up so many perplexing problems. So the outline I am enclosing would be essentially the chapters of the proposed book with that addition.

I am stimulated and enthusiastic about the possibilities.

Sincerely yours,
