

About Asoka Foundation

Asoka Foundation is a non-profit, tax-exempt private foundation chartered in 1982, with the goal of encouraging the world-wide dissemination of The URANTIA Book. To that end Asoka purchases in quantity URANTIA Books and related books and distributes them at cost. Asoka also produces pamphlets designed to help readers introduce The URANTIA Book to others, materials for study groups, and inspirational works based on or supportive of the teachings of The URANTIA Book.

Asoka Foundation is named in honor of the low-caste Indian monarch and evangelist Asoka, who lived in the 3th century B.C. and sent forth 17,000 Buddhist missionaries in 25 years. His story is described in The URANTIA Book on page 1037.

Asoka Foundation is in no way connected to URANTIA Foundation, the publisher of The URANTIA Book or Fifth Epochal Fellowship or its constituent Societies. Asoka Foundation nevertheless enthusiastically supports the work of these organizations, and encourages anyone who will listen to join Fifth Epochal Fellowship, the social and fraternal organization of URANTIA Book readers.

We must disappoint those interested in joining Asoka by informing you that there isn't anything for you to join. Asoka Foundation has four trustees, but no members. If you are interested in helping the world learn about The URANTIA Book, we would rather like to join you, by helping make available to you materials to make that task more successful, and to help make your URANTIA Book study group experience more enjoyable and profitable.
