Dear Chick:

The Trustees of URANTIA Foundation are pleased to grant you permission to use material from The URANTIA Book which appear in your two songs entitled "Come to the Mansion Worlds" and "When I Was Just a Tadpole," copies of which were attached to the November 24 letter of request you jointly signed with Julia Fenderson.

This grant of permission limits you to producing only 35 copies of each song and, further, that those copies may only be distributed to those individuals who will attend Julia Fenderson's workshop on Marriage and Family to be held on the weekend of January 12 and 13, 1980 in San Diego, California.

As I am sure you have noted, the Trustees have not extended permission to you to reproduce and distribute your song entitled "I'm from URANTIA," which was also included in your November 24 letter of request. The reason for this omission is that a legal point has been brought to our attention regarding the use of the word "URANTIA" in the title of the song which has to be clarified. We, of course, will let you know when this matter is clarified. Also, we have not forgotten the request in your October 23 letter regarding a general grant of permission to reproduce and distribute these songs at meetings of students of The URANTIA Book and we will respond to this request as soon as we are able to.

Please accept our warm regards for both you and Ellen in this holiday season.

In Fellowship,

Scott M. Forsythe
