Dear Barrie:

Re: Clyde Bedell's Concordex of The URANTIA Book

We again wish to express to you our condolences upon the passing of your father. We know this must be a difficult time for you, and we want to assure you of our personal support.

In order to encourage the fullest understanding between us, we would like to mention to you certain matters concerning the Concordex. This is especially true since the Concordex is currently out of print, and you may be planning a further printing.

As you know, the Concordex is a derivative work based upon The URANTIA Book. As such, you must obtain permission of URANTIA Foundation, as the copyright owner, before any further printings of the Concordex may be made. We last gave such permission to your father in 1978. That permission however (for a second edition) has now expired.

Because of this, we want you to be aware that without our prior written permission any further printings of the Concordex irrespective of what edition it might be would be in contravention of the Foundation's copyright in and to The URANTIA Book.

Nevertheless, we also wish to emphasize that the Trustees will sympathetically entertain any requests for future printings or editions of the Concordex.

In order that we may fully apprise those who may be involved, we ask you to tell us who is the representative of your father's estate. Please inform us both his or her name and address. We also ask that you or the representative inform us of anyone else who may have an interest in the Concordex either by way of any will or contract your father may have executed or as a natural heir.

Mr. C. Barrie Bedell .
